Climaxing a campaign of as much activity as was ever waged in this county in the annals of a race for office, State and county, primaries in Hancock came to a close Tuesday evening with 6 o'clock the hour appointed by law for closing the polls.

Election day was fully in keeping with the kind of campaign that was waged. Calm, cool and collected; no acrimony, no mud-slinging, no misrepresentation. Hancock for Bay St. Louis was held for North Bay St. Louis and South Bay St. Louis in the courthouse, at two different and separate apartment. Voters thronged the spacious and mosaic floors of the temple of justice throughout the day. It was a great crowd, at times separated into groups. Some quiet, some buzzing with subdued conversation. In all, a very orderly crowd and not the slightest untoward incident occurred to mar the day.

The weather was ideal, possibly a trifle warm, and the warmth and blessedness of the sunshine revealed its blessed light throughout. Elsewhere The Echo gives a tabulated vote of the day, State and county, presenting in detail and in general totals of the result of the day.

It required all of Tuesday night until Wednesday afternoon to count and tabulate the poll.

CHURCH FAIR IS SUCCESS

Goes Over Big, Regardless Of Heavy Shower Saturday Night—Biloxi and Local Bands Aid.

The fair for the benefit of Our Lady of the Gulf Church was held on the lawn of St. Stanislaus College last Saturday and Sunday. The fair was a success and the pastor, Very Rev. A. J. Gmelch, wishes to extend thanks to all those who helped to make this fair a success; in particular those who prepared the way for the fair by their liberal donations. The Community Band and the Bugle and Drum Corps of the Biloxi Knights of Columbus helped to make the stay at the fair a real pleasure. The success of every fair depends upon the hard work of those in charge of the booths and their helpers—and in particular can it be said that self-sacrifice and hard work were linked in the management of each booth.

On Saturday night, when the crowd was gathering a heavy shower of rain came and threatened to spoil the entertainment, however, the workers were not to be outdone, they brought their articles to shelter and patiently waited until Jupiter Pluvius decided to turn off the water.

Sunday night brought a fine gathering and mirth and joy seemed to be the prevailing spirit. The Community Band is a real credit to Bay St. Louis and it deserves our utmost support. The Biloxi Drum and Bugle Corps looked very nifty in their brilliant uniforms. Biloxi must be proud of them, too. Everyone who attended was well pleased at the way things were handled and went away with a word of praise for the workers and their helpers, and all who contributed to make the success it was.

Just what amount was realized is not yet revealed, however, it is expected it will be possible to announce this from the church pulpit Sunday. Rev. Father A. J. Gmelch, pastor, and assistants are deeply appreciative of the splendid support accorded the benefit.

MONEY ON HAND FOR HOSPITAL

Twenty-Five Hundred Dollars in Cash—Will Build Later With More Funds In Hand

With Mrs. E. J. Leonhard, president of the local King's Daughters, Bay St. Louis Sons and Daughters held regular meeting Monday afternoon at Hotel Weston, and matters of routine were discussed and disposed of.

An interesting phase was how much money is in the building fund for the new proposed hospital, as was announced. There is a total of $2512.95.

There was a balance in the Hancock County Bank of $1248.18. Placed in bank July 1, $244.66. Balance in Merchants Bank, $1216.47. Interest paid by bank plus $24.46.

Awaiting more funds and possibly a more propitious time, the management plans to build the proposed building some time later. Mrs. Craft, in charge of the hospital, who is on a vacation spending a while at Hattiesburg, will soon return. In the meantime, during her absence, the hospital continues the high standard of efficiency and popularity which it enjoys.

Comments on Bay St. Louis Visitors To Niagara Falls, New York

From the newspaper, "In The Mist," the only daily travel and tourist newspaper in the world, of July 29, we find the following, headed "Southern Ladies at the Cataract," concerning the party of Bay St. Louis ladies who recently left here on a tour.

"Thirteen Bay St. Louis, Mississippi delegates, en route home from the Women's Benefit Association convention which was held in Chicago last week, registered at the Cataract House last night. Following a dinner party traveled to the Canadian side to view the sights and enjoy the illumination of the Falls. Shortly before noon the party left for Detroit by train and from there will continue southward until reaching their various homes." Misses M. and L. Engman were handling the arrangements for this group.

"Those registered at the Cataract include the Misses Levee and Miriam Engman, Irma Koch, Lucille St. Amant, Amelia Seafide, Dora Nicolson, Yvonne Tremoulet, Katherine Burg, Mrs. Yvonne Le Blanc, Mrs. Louise Hobbs, Mrs. Mary Carter, Mrs. Bessie Murtagh and Mrs. Odile Stevenson."

LOCAL PARTY RETURNS FROM CHICAGO—TRIP TO NIAGARA FALLS

Members of Women Benefit Association of Bay St. Louis Breeze Into Bay Saturday.

Delighted with their trip to Chicago, the convention city, members of the Women's Benefit Association of Bay St. Louis, blew in on train No. 1 Saturday night loud in their praises of both trip and visit and of the many attentions and hospitable gestures received wherever they stopped and officially visited.

The party was composed of thirteen young women, with Miss Miriam Engman and Miss Levee Engman heading the number and who were the executives of the trip. How well the Misses Engman succeeded in their arduous task, but to them a labor of love, is best told by members of the party, who in unstinted praise and genuine acclaim say they owe all to the Misses Engman.

The young ladies were absent exactly two weeks and during that time they covered considerable territory and saw much. Chicago was the convention city. Here several thousand women assembled. The pageant in Soldier's Field was one of the gigantic and awe-inspiring spectacles ever witnessed.

Concluding a stay of several days in Chicago, and enjoying the various features of the program, the party visited over into Canada, including Detroit in their itinerary, and proceeded over to Niagara Falls, N. Y., where they viewed the falls by night, lighted in vari-color, and proceeded homeward through St. Louis, using the Louisville & Nashville line principally and wherever practically.

The Misses Engman remained at St. Louis, where they are spending the entire present week, visiting friends.

Composing the party of Bay delegates, including the Misses Engman, there were Misses Irma Koch, Lucille St. Amant, Amelia Seafide, Dora Nicolson, Yvonne Tremoulet, Katherine Burg, Mrs. Yvonne Le Blanc, Mrs. Louise Hobbs, Mrs. Mary Carter, Mrs. Bessie Murtagh and Mrs. Odile Stevenson.

Our representation made an outstanding showing in the pageant, parades, drills, etc.

FATHER OF CAPTAIN ERNEST DRACKETT DIES AT MORGAN CITY, LA.

Passed Away at Age of 71—Was Well-Known on Coast—Summer Home At The Pass

News was received in Bay St. Louis Monday evening that Captain John R. Drackett, 71 years old, and father of Capt. Ernest Drackett of the former Bay St. Louis auto ferry, had died that day, following an illness of about three weeks. The deceased was residing at his summer home on the Pass Christian beach. Not a well man, about three weeks ago his condition became such that he was removed to his home at Morgan City.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Mr. Drackett, went to New Orleans in 1881, where he built a cantilever coal conveyance and a year later at Ramos, La., built two boats for the Canal street ferry in New Orleans. In 1894 he was associated with the Ramos Lumber Company as marine superintendent, coming to Morgan City in 1896 to establish the boat yards bearing his name, later entering the Drackett-Terrebonne Boat Company, established in 1912, and forming the Morgan City-Berwick Ferry Company in 1915.

He was a member of the St. Mary (La.) parish police jury for many years and had been a member of the Morgan City council. His wife, the former Laura E. Dreiholz, two sons and two daughters survive. John R. Drackett, Jr., operates the Drackett fisheries and the other son, Ernest, handles the Oak street ferry in New Orleans. The daughters are Mrs. Howard Bookish, Lafayette, La., and Mrs. S. P. Rogers, New Orleans.

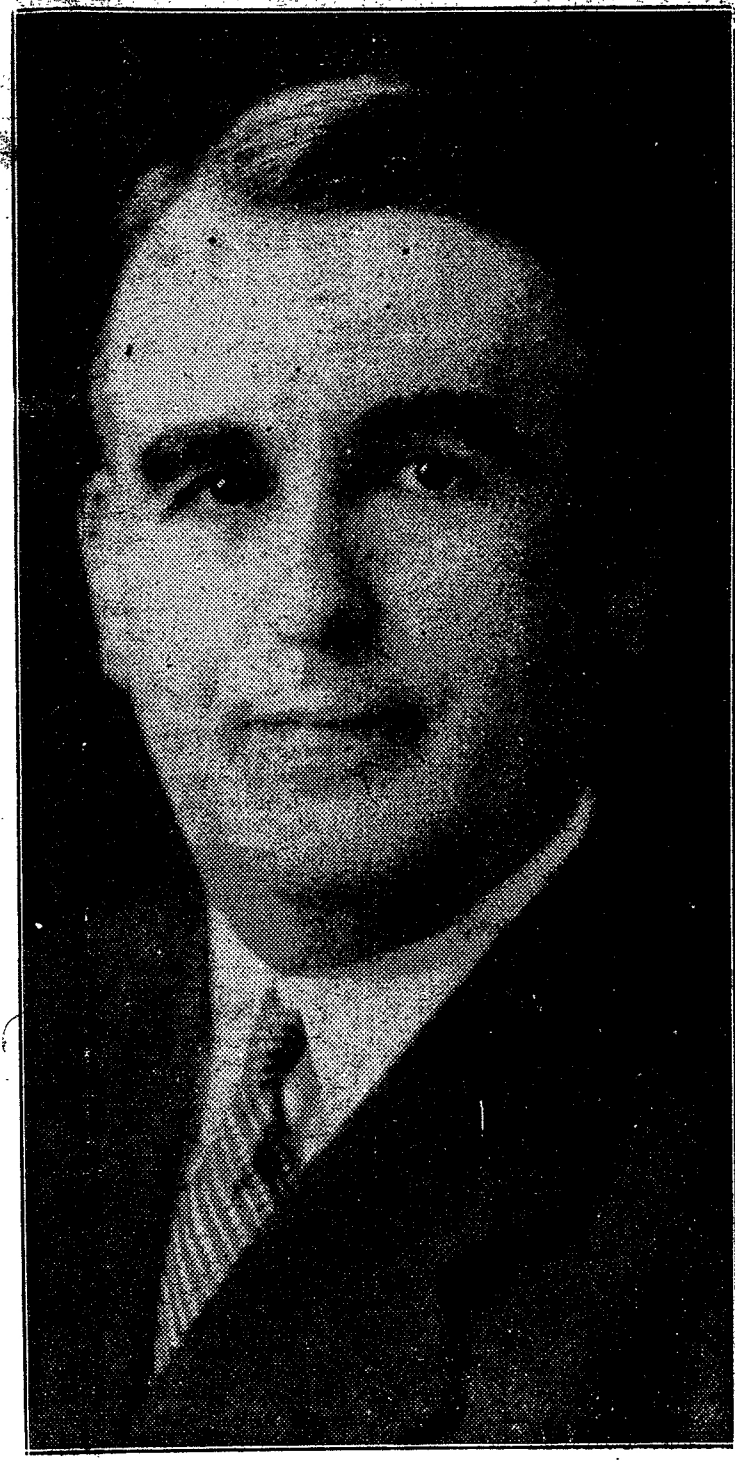

Ernest, son of the deceased, resided with his family in Bay St. Louis during the time the ferry operated across Bay St. Louis, and his father was a frequent visitor here and was widely known. The news of his death was received with much sorrow for the bereaved family.

West End Gulf Coast Estates Shows March of Improvement

A 20-acre site at Pointe aux Chenes, a beach development just west of West Pascagoula, has been landscaped, a pier, boat house and garage erected as well as a "camp" by James R. Leavelle, president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company of Chicago.

The improvements cost many thousands of dollars. Mr. Leavelle calls the residence a camp, and will later build a home on the site and use the present home as a servant's house. Abner J. Stillwell, vice president of the same bank, has purchased a 20-acre estate adjoining that of Mr. Leavelle.

STRAWBERRY ACREAGE TO BE DISCUSSED THIS FRIDAY AT C. OF C.

Messrs. Russo and Palumbo Have Issued Call to Local Farmers to Hear Discussion by Professional And To Register How Many Acres May Be Pledged For Next Year's Planting.

In order it may be accurately ascertained how many acres may be planted in strawberries in and around Bay St. Louis next season, Messrs. Russo and Palumbo have caused to be called a meeting of local farmers at the Chamber of Commerce this Friday afternoon, August 7, at 2:30 o'clock.

Charles Stacci, an expert on such matter from Hammond, La., will be present to speak to the farmers and will submit a contract and advise just what he will do and what he will charge as an expert.

The call for this meeting stresses the importance of it to all interested. A concluding paragraph of the call, says: "If sufficient acreage cannot be represented, Mr. Stacci cannot come here; therefore, be on hand to see if you wish to work with him."

Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring this project of planting extensive acreage in order berries may be shipped from here next spring by railroad lots. Mr. Stacci, said it is possible, the berries grown here well and possibly mature earlier here on the coast than elsewhere and it is possible to attract thousands of dollars here each year that otherwise would not find way into local channels.

Miss Althea Halleman Of New Orleans Victim Of Swimming Accident

Miss Althea Halleman of New Orleans, while spending the mid-summer with members of her family at Mrs. Theo Tudury's, Main street, was the victim of a painful accident while swimming at Henderson Point Wednesday noon.

A number of young people were ascending a ladder and diving and after each dive would again hurry to the top. Miss Halleman was rushing to the top in her anticipation for another dive, when a rung of the ladder gave away and the young lady dropped full weight striking her abdomen against a lower rung with force. She was taken over to Bay St. Louis, Dr. A. P. Smith attending, who pronounced her injury quite painful and not necessarily serious. She returned to her home in New Orleans the third day.

PRIEST SPEAKS TO CLUB

Rev. Leo F. Fahey, of Bay St. Louis, Speaks of Two Citizens of Other Days

Rev. Father Leo F. Fahey, beloved and able young priest of Bay St. Louis, was the guest of honor of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club Wednesday and delivered the address for the occasion.

That Fr. Fahey is going to speak is always a signal for renewed interest and he was given a warm welcome and ovation on the occasion of his visit and address. Scheduled by the Program Committee of the Club to have talked on "Citizenship," he stated that he took advantage of the privilege offered and changed the subject. "I will speak of two citizens," he said, "who have exemplified the highest type of civic spirit."

"Father Louis Stanislaus Mary Buteux was born in Paris in 1808. Educated at St. Sulpice, ordained in 1836 and came to America. As a missionary in Indiana he called on the Sisters of Providence and founded St. Mary's of the Woods. On account of his health he came South and was appointed pastor of Bay St. Louis.

"In a diary kept by this First Pastor we find that he arrived in Bay St. Louis Sunday, August 8th, 1847 and stopped at Mr. Toulme's. The First Mass by this pastor was celebrated in the Court House August 15th 1847. He met the principal inhabitants and made arrangements for the grounds for a Church. On Sept. 2nd he bought the church property from Mr. Phillips, and immediately began plans for building—the church was blessed by Bishop Chanche, August 19, 1852.

HANCOCK SLAYER AT LARGE

Jesse Favre, Whose Case Attracted Attention During Trial, Probably Fatally Shot.

Interest in one of the most notable murder cases in the history of the Mississippi Gulf Coast was revived Friday night of last week when a message from the penitentiary farm, at Sunflower, stating that Jesse Favre, serving a life sentence for a double murder in Hancock County, had escaped from the farm, and had been recaptured and wounded after a running gun fight with pursuing prison officials.

Favre, well known along the coast, and a former resident of the Honey Island section, is in the prison hospital at Sunflower, with a serious gunshot wound in the chest.

Fugitive Opens Fire

He had been trailed all day, after his early morning escape, by R. M. Woods, assistant superintendent of the prison camp, and two Sunflower county deputies. The officers came upon the fleeing man in a cottonfield near Draw, according to press advices. The fugitive was armed with a repeating rifle which he had taken from a guard, and opened fire on his pursuers. Woods reported that he ordered Favre to surrender, firing over his head. When the fire was returned, he fired again at close range, the bullet entering Favre's chest, and coming out near the spinal column.

Favre's condition, from latest reports this week, is reported critical.

Favre, after his escape, gained a good start on his pursuers. He was from the farm was not noticed for some time. Another posse, with bloodhounds had trailed him to a highway near the farm, where the trail was lost, and it was believed that the convict had entered an automobile.

The slaying for which Favre was sentenced to a life term aroused nationwide attention five years ago, when he was placed on trial, and feeling in the coast counties ran high for a time.

An alleged accomplice in the double slaying, Walter Jackson, was never brought to trial, having been lynched in Pearl River county by an unidentified band of men who hanged him from a bridge.

Federal Surveyors Slain

Favre was convicted at Bay St. Louis of the slayings of two members of a federal entomological survey party, who were at work on Honey Island.

OUTSTANDING SERIES OF ARTICLES ON COAST DEVELOPMENT CLOSES

The Sea Coast Echo, with its issue of last week, published the last of a series of highly interesting and constructive articles written by W. D. Robinson, resident of the Mississippi Coast, domiciled at Pass Christian, who dwelt on the high spots of various phases of industrial and agricultural development from Jackson to Hancock county and including at times such interior sections of the Coast as Stone county.

Many of our readers have clipped these articles from the columns of The Echo for filing purposes, in order they may be referred to or for keepsake as each contained that thoroughly informative element for which making so much value. Quite a number of our subscribers from away have asked for extra copies of The Echo containing these illuminating and constructive articles.

Our readers who followed the series will remember the different phases upon which they dwelt, interviews with visitors and others, the future of cut-over lands, the grape-growing industry, etc.

These articles have proven a valuable contribution to the present and immediate development of the Coast country. Mr. Robinson's wife is quite ill and his presence is demanded at her bedside. For the present, at least, he closes the series.

He is well known and for many years one of the desk editors of the New Orleans Picayune.

John D. Ogden, Jr., formerly of Orleans, but the past three years or more living with his parents at San Antonio, Texas, met his death at 12:30 o'clock Tuesday morning when a Ford coupe went through and over the end of the Bay St. Louis beach boulevard. He was with Dick Keenan of Biloxi, who owned the car and the boy of fatality was at the wheel driving the death car. His neck was broken as the car plunged from the high end of the road down into the marsh several feet below, and one tire was severed from its place on a front wheel and never was recovered.

Mrs. (Bologna) Il Brighenti, who resides in the soft drink and sandwich place of business near the scene of the accident, said to The Echo.

"My daughter and self had just retired, residing at our place of business, and soon we heard the car pass then a crash down into the weeds and mud of the marsh and one voice calling for help. The other man we learned later was dead. We were given assistance from the cries of my daughter and soon we had with help extricated Ogden's companion, from under the wreck. He was badly hurt but not seriously hurt."

"The car plunged through an open space of the guard railing at the end," Mrs. Il Brighenti continued. "Three weeks ago Pete Letour, of Bay St. Louis crashed with his auto into the sturdy rail end and wrecked it. Awaiting the arrival of heavy material to repair the break, it was still open and the Ogden car went through the open space."

Keenan explained that they mistook their direction thinking they were headed south when in reality they were following the beach road to the north. Observing too late the end of the pavement, they plunged over the seawall overturning the car and pinning both boys beneath it.

Ogden was a native of New Orleans, connected with the Ogden family that formerly resided in Bay St. Louis. His parents moved from New Orleans some years ago to the Texas town and were spending the summer this year at 501 East Beach, Biloxi. Ogden enjoying a vacation, with two boy companions had sailed along the coast. Reaching Pass Christian, it appears the trio became interested in a trip over to Bay St. Louis. The boat was anchored off the W. J. Gex pier. Two companions were asleep on the boat at the time. The other had the narrowest escape of his life.

Ogden's remains were prepared by the Fahey Burial Company of Bay St. Louis and shipped to New Orleans Tuesday morning on No. 9, funeral taking place from the train, head of Canal street, and interment in the family burial place at Metairie cemetery. The family, from Biloxi, were on the funeral train and met the body here.

The wrecked car was taken from its position in the marsh by the Peter Porter wrecking service and carried on to the repair shop. Mr. Porter at the time had not estimated the extent of the damage.

THAT the South is forging ahead in the matter of cotton manufactures is revealed in statistics recently given out by the government, and it will no doubt excite some surprise in the minds of Mississippians to learn that the increase in the number of spindles in our State during the three years from May, 1928, to May, 1931, showed a gain of 16.8 per cent, higher percentage than that of any other Southern State.

It has long been a cause for wonder why the South's chief and most valuable product—cotton—has been shipped to the East to be manufactured into goods and fabrics and the output shipped back to the section in which it was produced. The freight charges paid on a bale of cotton to and from the mills amount to a goodly sum, then the profits accruing to the manufacturers and to every one who has any part in the handling of that bale from the time it leaves the man who produced it must be paid out of Southern pockets.

It will be a glorious day when Smokestacks of manufacturing plants dot every section of the South, plants in which our own raw material is converted into finished products. No section of the Union is more blessed than the South in having a greater or more varied variety of raw material out of which may be manufactured goods of every kind and description, and it only remains for capital to recognize that fact.

IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE.

Dr. F. Scott McBryde, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, predicts that Alfred E. Smith and Herbert C. Hoover will be the major parties' presidential candidates in 1932. He is also quoted as saying that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be put forward in the Democratic convention, but his nomination is out of the question, and Smith will get the nomination as a compromise, but that the selection of either would not be acceptable to the "drys." Too bad, but we are not going to accept Dr. McBryde's unmasked and unsolicited "say so" in the matter. The way we view the situation it makes little difference which of the two—Smith or Roosevelt—secures the nomination, his election is assured. Otherwise, the Democratic party could just as well disband for all times. The question of wetness and dryness of the party platform will cut no figure in the campaign as victory will come because the country is sick and tired of Republican control of the government.

EVERY THING GOES AT RENO.

A Reno, Nevada, citizen is quoted as declaring: "We want Reno advertised as the wildest, wildest, wickedest, widest-openest town in all America. Roast us all you want to. It's free advertising. We want the whole world to know there is one place where blue laws are dead and everything goes." Could a more pressing invitation be extended to gangsters, criminals, scarlet women and other human derelicts to turn their steps toward a city that boasts of its wickedness? Within its confines such riff-raff would find their natural habitat; but the doom of such a city is foreordained. Centuries ago Sodom and Gomorrah paid the penalty for their wickedness.

CELEBRATES SEVENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY.

Hon. John Sharp Williams, Mississippi's "Grand Old Man," celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday last Saturday. May he live to celebrate many, many returns of his natal day. No living Mississippian has a larger or more secure place in the affections of the people of our State than that held by the "Sage of Cedar Grove Plantation."

CAN'T HURRY UNCLE SAM.

The Federal government has been promising Jackson a new postoffice building for a long time and just when the people of the capital city were feeling sure that work on the structure would start news came that perhaps it will be another year before building work on the structure begins. Uncle Sam is never in a hurry in such matters, however, pressing the need may be.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New Jersey has pledged itself not to drink—Exchange. As long as there is a supply of something to drink far more potent and exhilarating than cider why should temperance folks make any such pledge?

Judge McCord, who presides over the circuit court up at Montgomery, Ala., was the target at which would-be assassins fired several shots the other night, but their aim was bad and he escaped injury. It seems that the jurist had incurred the enmity of shot machine operators and the attempt made to kill him is laid at their door.

THE PRESS AND OFFICIALS.

THE people cannot rule intelligently unless the press gives them the facts, says Attorney General Sorenson, of Nebraska. "The powerful influence that every newspaper of any consequence wields over human thought and action carries with it a tremendous moral responsibility to use that power for the betterment of the community and country. What should be the attitude of the press toward public officials?"

"First, willingness to criticize them if criticism is justified. Crooked politicians fear the press more than the courts. Honest officials welcome constructive suggestions. Wooden-headed office holders can only be moved by sharp newspaper blasts. Those in office are no better than anybody else. They are not entitled to ask for any immunity. Newspapers should be fair but when necessary they should treat them rough. It is good for them.

"Second, newspapers should cooperate with public officials in maintaining law and order. We surrender much individual liberty and pay millions of dollars in taxes to our Government. Why? Principally to protect our property, liberty, and life. On the question of reasonable law enforcement there ought therefore not to be two sides. Every newspaper ought to support to the limit the effort of the local, State, and national officials to enforce the laws of the land. An honest, fearless newspaper ought never to join hands with trucking town politicians who want to whitewash with 'local pride' cancerous conditions that need cleaning up and not covering up.

"Third, there should be constant editorial championship by newspapers of worthy causes. A western newspaper of huge circulation has this motto: Dedicated in perpetuity to the service of the people, that no good cause shall lack a champion and that evil shall not thrive unopposed. For example there is a great opportunity in the near future for Nebraska newspapers to strike mighty blows for a more equitable taxation system in the State, a unified State police system, more efficient county government, and always a more fair distribution of the wealth of the country."

The public official has also some responsibilities says the Attorney General for he "should be honest and frank. The press is a window through which the public looks in and sees their servant at work. The picture should not be distorted. There may be reasons of public policy for not letting the press know of a certain matter today. But eventually the public is entitled to all the facts about all public matters. A policy of secrecy or of misinformation by public officials can not be justified. It is contrary to public policy. The people can not vote intelligently unless they know all the facts as they are. A public official is a trustee for the citizens. As the beneficiaries of that trust they are entitled to a frequent accounting of the acts and doings of the trustee. The far-sighted public official wants the people to know what he is doing. If they know and approve he is almost invincible."

THE BETTER PLACE TO LIVE IN.

BAY ST. LOUIS with its religious, social and economic endeavors, plus climate and all other elements essential for better living, is the ideal place to live in.

Bay St. Louis' churches and schools are not only ample in number to serve but function to that degree that make their service the kind that measures to the fullest degree. The governmental departments of county and city are efficient to a point to which all agree.

Our various fraternal, benevolent, civic and commercial clubs are not lacking, and it is not amiss in this connection to dilate on these. Our commercial club functions to best advantage of the largest number. Thoroughly organized, its workings, systematized, it is no wonder it has accomplished much. Bay St. Louis and Hancock county have no bigger asset for its present and future development than its commercial club.

Its Rotary Club, of world-wide reputation, has given both service and fame to Bay St. Louis and here's to that valiant band of business men who are standing together against all odds of the trend of the times and battling for city and county all that such civic club stands for. The Rotary Club is no child's play. It is a serious-minded, business man's club, with both moral and financial backing.

Our County Legion Post, and Boy Scout Troops are active and serve as sign posts to the guidance of better citizenship, for better boys and future men, and active in service and resultful endeavor as both register. We must naturally pride ourselves on such stalwart organization.

The King's Daughters and Sons represent that element of mercy that knows no bounds and to which our heart and hand must go out in all the fulness of our better nature.

AN HONORABLE AND HIGH-PITCHED CAMPAIGN.

The Echo wishes to compliment the candidates of Hancock county and those of the district as well who have just emerged from a long and tedious ordeal on the fact the campaign has been one of thorough harmony.

This is due to the high mark of intelligence and fine spirit that has characterized the race from its inception to the finality, and when this is said no higher compliment could be paid the men who have offered their services to their country and countrymen, which only too often is a matter of sacrifice.

The Echo has taken no sides in the campaign. We could not if we had wished. Every man, and we say so advisedly, has either at one time or another proven a staunch friend of this newspaper and given every manifestation from time to time of this fact.

To those who are elected, congratulations. To those who do not make the grade, we compliment them on their fine sense of sportsmanship and say, Better luck next time. We know some must win, some must lose. We know no two men can be elected to the same and one office.

The campaign has come to end. There are no drags to the cup of defeat. Friends before the election are still friends today. It has been a clean and honorable campaign. We feel the next campaign of three weeks will be the same.

MOST BARBARIC MANIFESTATION OF UTTER DISREGARDBy JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

ONE night last week in New York several human rodents representing some of the organized gangsters and racketeer contingent that operates in that city, apparently unhindered, set forth for a killing. Their death car was equipped with a machine gun. Some rival racketeer boss was to be put "on the spot." The scene of the kill was located in a crowded tenement-section where children played innocently about the sidewalk and street totally unaware that a hail of death bullets was to change their gleeful laughter to shrieks of fright and horror.

But the twitchy fingers of these slinking, cowardly, gangster rats could not withhold fire once their intended victim was spotted. This time, however, gangland was to be denied the pleasure of putting a rival beer baron out of the way. Instead they must be content with having ruthlessly taken the life of a five year old child, and wounding four others—all defenseless children.

This latest and most barbaric manifestation of utter disregard for civilization's law by organized gangland is an open challenge to every decent and law abiding citizen of the larger cities, and the entire United States in general. Surely even the meekest citizen must feel the blood within his veins boil at the thought of that innocent little child's body lying on the sidewalk riddled with machine gun bullets at the hands of these cowardly brutes.

The screams of the four children wounded by these rabid killers should certainly haunt the slumber of neglectful police, officials, and "higher ups," if in any way "hush money" from gangster and racketeer chiefs has blindfolded their eyes to the activities of these undesirable which led up to this heinous crime.

Civilization, through courageous and intelligent scientists, has found a way to eradicate plagues and epidemics. Today, loyal, red-blooded American citizens in the larger cities are facing an epidemic of gangster and racketeer activities. It is high time for those cowardly criminals, aiming deadly machine gun hidden within curtained cars as they speed past, to be driven out in the open—away from the alleged protective "rat nest" security of crooked lawyers, intimidated juries, "paid off" police, officials, and "higher ups."

Gangland and racketeer activities will continue to flourish only as long as the powerful right arm and stern demands of the law abiding citizens remain inactive. It is to be hoped that last week's innocent bloodshed will electrify that arm to action that should have been taken long ago.

(REVIEWING THE NEWS IN LAST WEEK'S ECHO.)

CHICAGO, Ill., August 4.—That Bay St. Louis has an obliging postmaster was made plain by last week's Echo which told of Mr. Glover's taking an informal poll of the businessmen of the city before putting office on the 14-hour per week basis that is common to every office in the country since July 1st. Little business is transacted in the Bay St. Louis office on Saturdays and so the businessmen responded kindly to the plan which will give the employees a little more spare time. Here in Chicago, the new arrangement has hampered business quite a bit. We never had mail deliveries on Saturday afternoon, but now 9:30 in the morning marks the last sight of a postman until Monday morning. No one begrudges the hardworking letter carriers their extra half day, but it seems to some of us that a few of the starving substitutes might be given an opportunity to deliver our mail, the while they made a few dimes for themselves. Anyway, it appears that even after giving the employees a half holiday, Bay St. Louis has better postal service than Chicago.

According to the brilliant galaxy of speakers appearing weekly before the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, Rev. Fr. Kirschenheuter, gave that body the benefit of his experience, his study and his travel in the course of his address last Wednesday. He impressed his listeners, as he himself was impressed, with the enduring qualities of the handiwork of the ancient craftsmen of the Old World. To have builded better than was ever built before was the true measure of success for these worthy craftsmen. They have been succeeded, we must sadly admit, by too many, both in Europe and elsewhere, who are interested in creating only what will sell most readily on the world markets. But the monuments of the old world will still stand when the shams of many moderns have crumbled away. And as Father Kirschenheuter pointed out, the Principles of Rotary will endure, when the false ideals of many another portion of our social organism shall have been forgotten.

To the parents of the boys privileged to attend Camp Stanislaus, there will be no anxiety as to their sons who are spending the summer. This new department of St. Stanislaus College which last week's Echo announced will open August 5, under the direction of Brother Peter, president of the institution will be of untold benefit to the boys between 8 and 17 who can avail themselves of its advantages. From their activities there, the young men will gain not only clear, clean minds and healthy bodies, but they will learn much. And the carrying of that knowledge will never cost them a cent as they wend their way through life.

Another group of fortunate young fellows was that which made its way to beautiful camp Salem on Monday morning when Scoutmaster Ed. F. Anderson and his assistant, Ed. I. Jones, conveyed the members of Troop No. 208 to the annual encampment at the finest Boy Scout camp in the country. That young organization, like young men can excel in their work if the proper leadership and incentive is present, is shown by the statement in last week's Echo to the effect that although it is but a few months old, Troop 208 has already become the outstanding Boy Scout organization on the Gulf Coast. And, points out the Echo, that is a splendid record, in view of the fact that there are five other troops, including those at Gulfport and Biloxi.

"I hope to let the contract for the additional seventeen miles before the ten mile experiment road shall have been completed." Such was the tersely worded news received last week by Geo. R. Rea, President of the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, who has been very active in promoting the work of surfacing the Old Spanish Trail to the Louisiana border. The letter from Mr. Thames of the State Highway Department which contained the information should quiet the critics who complain of the condition of the road, even when they know that highway officials in most states cause such projects to be closed to traffic for many months.

Sadly did the friends of W. A. McDonald receive the news published in the Echo last week, of the passing of the wife of his older brother D. H. McDonald at her home in Biglow, Arkansas. They know that her passing has caused their friend sorrow and pain, both on account of his own loss of a devoted relative.

THE NEED FOR SAFETY.

Are the people of America believers in the sanctity of human life? Statistics for unnecessary deaths and accidents do not justify an affirmative answer for each year an enormous number of human beings are prematurely rushed into the Great Beyond by other people so careless and reckless that the possibility of taking a brother's life does not act as any deterrent at all.

During 1930, eighty-nine people were killed each week and 2,712 injured by traffic accidents throughout the nation. This average, applied to a year, makes the alarming total of 32,500 deaths and 900,000 injuries inflicted on our population by reckless and lawless driving of automobiles. The great pity about it all is that those responsible for this terrific toll of lives and damage are not the ones who suffer, because in most cases those who suffer are not the ones responsible for the accidents and wrecks.

There is a growing demand for protective measures to safeguard the lives of our people from these traffic tragedies. A number of states have instituted highway patrols and while these have reduced accidents considerably there are still too many being maimed and killed by automobiles. Some are proposing that mechanical appliances be placed on every automobile to limit the speed. An effort is being made to produce a speedometer which will carry under seal a record of the speed of the car. Unless drivers of automobiles begin to use more caution and voluntarily have more regard for the lives of their fellow men it is inevitable that the states will look for some control measures to prevent a continuation of the present unnecessary waste in human lives.

That Bay St. Louis shall lose none of its reputation as a convention city, but that, it shall add to its fame in that regard, seems to be the goal of Mrs. A. F. Fournier who has but lately returned from the Delta where she has been in conference with other Kings Daughters and Sons regarding the state meeting which will be held in Bay St. Louis in October. And it is because of the efforts and activities of citizens like Mrs. Fournier that conventions come to the city. To the entire population, and especially to those in charge of the arrangements, will go the credit for the fine impression the visiting delegates carry with them after the conventions are over.

Personal and General Notes of Week From Waveland and Vicinity

V. E. WEBER Box 134
Waveland, Miss.

A FEW YEARS AGO at a meeting held at Hotel Weston, Bay St. Louis, Mr. H. Weston presiding, the citizens of Waveland agreed to accept a low seawall, instead of height, specified by engineers; this was done in order that beach protection could be extended to Bayous Cadet and Deslos.

At the time attention of meeting was called to the danger of proposed paved road between edge of pavement and property line, due to back lash or wave wash, in case of severe storms.

Once the tide went over wall the back lash would undermine road, unless it was protected on land side. Some one replied, why that is a very small matter, and will be looked after.

A few years have passed, and we were very fortunate to escape the fury of a tropical hurricane. But a short while back we were visited by a storm blowing 55 miles an hour, the tide went over the wall without doing any damage; but the back lash certainly cut in under the pavement, and in spots caved in and had to be jacked up and blocked.

If we have another storm of any intensity you will find your small matter has grown to a very large and serious one. Some steps should be taken at once to protect this road, as there are lots of places undermined, especially where light sand was used for back fill ready to go out with the next storm. A close inspection should be made along the Waveland front without delay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards of New Orleans will leave for the summer, the beach home of Dr. J. J. Wymer.

Mrs. Swasez and Mrs. Mazerat entertained at bridge last Thursday at the Swasez home. Following ladies were present, Mrs. W. A. Mapp, Mrs. G. T. Schilling, Mrs. Ammons, Mrs. Fred Herlihy, Mrs. W. E. Andrews and Miss Loura.

Prof. Geo. T. Schilling has returned from Oxford, Miss.

Mrs. Mazerat and daughter, Ethel have returned to New Orleans after spending several weeks as guests of Mrs. Swasez.

Misses Elise and Della Lizana have left for Baton Rouge, La., and Roxie, Miss., for an extended stay, visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. A. R. Jenkins of Clinton, La., spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. J. D. Bourgeois.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Rolland and family will spend the balance of the summer here.

Sister Mary Alice of St. Joseph Academy, Baton Rouge, visited her mother, Mrs. A. Biquemont over the week end.

Mrs. C. Penado and son, Charles are spending a few days in New Orleans.

PAINS QUIT COMING

"When I was a girl, I suffered periodically with terrible pains in my back and sides. Often I would bend almost double with the intense pain. This would last for hours and I could get no relief.

"I tried almost everything that was recommended to me, but found nothing that would help until I began taking Cardui. My mother thought it would be good for me, so she got a bottle of Cardui and started me taking it. I soon improved. The bad spells quit coming. I was soon in normal health."

New Model Ford Next Fall Is Reported

Detroit, Aug. 4.—The Detroit News, commenting on a recently announced reduction of the employment roster of the Ford Motor Company, says that an official of the company has reported that the reduction is temporary in preparation for an "improved model" in September, and that not less than 30,000 men will be continually employed during the current month.

The paper says that no change is expected in the motor design of the automobile. Last week the company announced the suspension of manufacturing activities during August and stated that only a skeleton force would be kept at Detroit and other assembly plants. It was stated that 11 of the 36 assembly plants throughout the country would continue to operate.

WHITE ADDRESSES MANY AT COUNTY COURTHOUSE SATURDAY MORNING

Introduced by Mayor Charles Traub, Sr.—Cited Record Of J. J. White Lumber Company—Concerned With Business, Not Politics.

Forecasting the large vote that he received here in the Tuesday election, an overflow crowd heard Hugh L. White, independent candidate for governor, when the candidate spoke in Bay St. Louis Monday morning.

Packing the courtroom of the county courthouse, the Columbian mayor and business executive in attendance, according to him, a noisy reception when he concluded the presentation of his business administration platform.

An administration of retrenchment and strict economy was promised the state by the candidate, who once ran a meat market, worked in a sawmill and pulled a log train.

Citing the record of the J. J. White lumber company, which has been operated for more than 70 years without a single judgment having been rendered against it by a jury, as proof that he has always been a friend to labor, Mr. White made the following statement regarding the much discussed workmen's compensation law:

"I have always believed in fair and adequate compensation for injuries sustained by employees through the negligence of their employers. A large percent of labor, both organized and unorganized, is opposed to a workmen's compensation law, whereas, there is considerable sentiment on the part of one branch of organized labor in favor of such a law. In view of this diversity of opinion among the workmen themselves, I shall not devote any time, if elected governor, to the matter of urging the passage of legislation of this kind, but in the event a workmen's compensation law is passed by the legislature, I will approve the bill, provided it gives fair and adequate compensation to injured employees or their families."

Declaring himself opposed to the exemption of cut-over lands from taxation, and against the repeal of the income tax law, Mr. White discussed at length the problem of taxation, stating that "an enlightened public opinion has come to realize that it is not exemption that is so much needed to bring about a greater industrial, commercial and agricultural development in our state, but it is tax equalization and tax reduction and retrenchment."

The candidate represented himself as a man who has been concerned with business, not politics, saying, "You have been told that I am not only a man for governor who can give the state a businesslike administration, but that we need a man who possesses political astuteness as well. But may I suggest that it is no political astuteness that the taxpayers are looking for at this time. We have had a superabundance of political astuteness at Jackson in the past, and a sufficient amount of astueness and ingenuity has been displayed in the carrying on of a political feud that has retarded the progress and development of the state for years to come, and the taxpayers have been the innocent victims."

Mr. White concluded with a discussion of "righteousness in government," and declared that the crying need of the hour is an awakened consciousness on the part of the state officials that the people of the state are going to demand at least plain common honesty in public office.

He was introduced by Mayor Charles Traub who presented Mr. White as a man well qualified by training and experience to hold the office of governor.

N. O. Lodge Plans Outing to Bay Saint Louis, August 30.

Benevolent Knights of America of New Orleans will give an excursion August 30 on the grounds of St. Stanislaus College at Bay St. Louis. Athletic and field sports will be on the program and games for children will be one of the distinctive features. Trophies to the winners competing in sports and amusing prizes to intrigue the youngsters will be distributed. Chairman Wright named the following to serve on the games committee: F. T. Daunis, chairman; Lerraro, Baur, Ray, Schart, Eddie Reggio, Sidney Reggio, John Dahinden, Charles Masson, J. Manuel Quintana, H. F. Sirgo, E. I. Soule.

Friendly rivalry among the various lodges is claiming much interest in the membership campaign inaugurated by F. L. Loyes, grand commander and at the end of July, Pelican Lodge was still in the lead, Carrie M. Barthe holding second place, while Loyal Star and Liberty Panama were tied for third place. With only one point separating the second and third places the contest is becoming spirited, reports John J. Puderer, grand secretary. The contest will end December 30.

Monarch, Pro Tem
I'm the head of my home at last, old chap,
I do as I please and I don't give a rap
If splashes of ashes go falling galore
All over the rugs of the living room floor,
Nor how many dishes pile up in the sink,
And I don't give a hang if the cat wants a drink,
For I am boss of my own habitation—
While my wife is away on her summer vacation.—Judge.

DRY LAW IN PORTO RICO IS FAILURE, SAYS FEDERAL OFFICER

Commissioner Davila Says Prohibition Is Not Necessary And Is A Burden On Island

Commissioner Davila of Porto Rico at Washington Tuesday predicted a vote on prohibition in the island would be overwhelmingly against the land and said he was going to seek authority from Congress next winter for such a ballot.

Davila, who came here by plane last week, said prohibition had failed in Porto Rico. Director Woodcock of the prohibition bureau, after a recent inspection trip to the island criticized the enforcement there and announced plans for providing ten more dry officers.

Davila said it was practically "impossible" to make the dry law effective in the island.

"We have islands of the West Indies close by, and it is very easy to smuggle in from those countries," he said.

"There is no place proportionate to its size where more liquor is sold. The result is that the bootleggers have made a fortune."

"$4,000,000 it would be in revenue if prohibition were not in effect."

The commissioner said congressional appropriations "on account of the distressed condition of our people" would not be necessary if prohibition were abolished.

"I voted for prohibition," he added, "but I am convinced of the impossibility of enforcing the law. At the same time that law is doing a great deal of harm to the people of Porto Rico. Our legislature should be allowed to act in the matter just the same as the Philippine Islands. There is no prohibition in the Philippines."

Davila said the first saloon was established in the island "only after the advent of the United States there."

"Prohibition is not necessary in Porto Rico," he insisted, "and it is a burden on the island."

JOHN M. PARKER AND OTHERS LAND TARPONS

Tarpon Hole off Pass Christian Sunday was alive with the finny gamblers and New Orleans anglers, as well as the lovers of the rod and reel from other sections, were out in big force. It was one of the most colorful and impressive scenes seen in and around Pass Christian in some time. The day's play for the big fellows resembled a water carnival.

Several of the tarpon landed were extra large ones, among the biggest being the one landed by Red D. Hasler, of Memphis, Tenn., which measured a full six feet and weighed 156 pounds.

Former Governor John M. Parker was among the fortunate ones. The former executive of Louisiana landed his thirtieth tarpon, which measured five feet four inches.

Fisher Simmons, aboard the yacht "Sunshine II," landed a tarpon measuring five feet, nine inches.

Commodore McClellan and Frank Butler hooked several of the day's catch, having as guides on the McClellan yacht "Spikes" Robert Peralta and James Dolin.

"Tarpons are plentiful at Tarpon Hole," said Commodore McClellan. "It was a great day and much fun came out of it, for there's nothing that gives an angler a greater thrill than to land one of these big fellows."

WAVELAND WALLOPS IN BASE BALL GAME ON SUNDAY LAST

Waveland Sentinels Defeat Bay Panthers in Hectic Game—Victory Score 11 to 8.

When Bay St. Louis plays Waveland, anything is liable to happen. And Sunday in a wild game at St. Stanislaus Stadium which saw Waveland stagger forth at the end of nine hectic innings with an 11-8 victory everything happened. There was rotten pitching, and there was wonderful pitching. There were 13 errors and 24 hits. There was a constant questioning of the umpire's decisions. There was a fight between the president of the Bay Club and a player on the Waveland team, which resulted in an arrest and nearly culminated in a general free-for-all.

Waveland got off to a lead which the Sentinels never lost. In the first inning they jumped on Jimmy Collier for five runs, tallying on a combination of hits, errors, wild pitches, hit batsmen, and bases on balls. In the second, they scored four more runs when "T. J." Bourgeois walked they scored on "Slick" Ball's single. Ball came in a moment later. The Bay battalion began their siege in their half of the second, when they made Wallace Bontemps triple, Jimmy Collier's and Strong's singles, and two errors, count for three runs. Ruger added another to Waveland's total in the third when he reached first on A. Collier's error, stole second, and came in on Harold Bourgeois' single. Bay St. Louis continued to find Jack Ladner in the same inning, when a base on balls, "Slick" Ball's error, and Boudin's one-base hit enabled Egloff and "Cotton" Collier to cross the plate. There was no more scoring until the fifth, when Jack Ladner doubled, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on a smashing single of Harold Bourgeois.

Fayard-Ladner Fight
Waveland had scored two runs in the sixth when the excitement started. With one man down Sydney Bourgeois had reached second, on Strong's error in center field and had come in when Fayard sent a three-base hit to the same location. Glover had flown to rightfield for the second out, and Jack Ladner had driven in Fayard when Boudin erred at second. The next man up was Ruger, and he slammed the ball far out in the direction of left field and the foul line. Umpire Grogan apparently signalled fair ball, and Ruger circled the bases for a home run. But Fred Fayard, president of the Bay St. Louis club, dashed out onto the field and remonstrated with Grogan. The stadium was in an uproar by then, but order was finally restored, the ball was called a foul, and Ruger proceeded to strike out to end the inning.

Telhiard took the mound for Waveland in Ladner's place, and got out to a bad start. He walked Wallace Bontemps, Jimmy Collier singled, and the next two men flew out, with Bontemps scoring on Strong's fly. Alden Collier then drove out a long two-bagger that scored his brother, Egloff, 1b.

Collier, 1b, scored on a wild pitch, and went to third on a wild pitch, and

Drivers of sixes never want less

because it takes six cylinders to give the smooth, silent power that makes driving really enjoyable

Drivers of sixes are spoiled for anything less. Drivers of sixes are sold on multiple cylinders. They would no more think of giving up "six" performance than any other real advancement of motoring. For them, the whole cylinder question has been settled. Slip behind the wheel of a Chevrolet Six, and you'll know why these drivers feel as they do. Step on the starter, let the motor idle—and notice its silence. Throw in the clutch, shift into "low"—and feel that smoothness. Change into "second," hit a faster and faster clip, slip into "high," sweep along at top speed—then throttle down to barely a crawl. The smoothness and flexibility you always get are six-cylinder smoothness, six-cylinder flexibility. Annoying vibration is gone!

Over two million owners have tested and proved this six-cylinder Chevrolet engine. They have found that it costs less for gas and oil than any other. They have found that it actually reduces upkeep costs, by holding vibration to a minimum. They know a six is better in every way—and they would never be satisfied with less!

Twenty beautiful models, at prices ranging from $475 to $675. All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan, special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G. M. A. C. terms.

A Railroad Has Many Owners

A Message from L. A. Downs, President, Illinois Central System.

Dependable for 80 Years

Railway plants don't just grow. They are built up painstakingly out of the savings of thousands of industrious citizens, to whom interest and dividends often mean their own or their dependents' subsequent support.

Title to the Illinois Central System is vested in approximately 20,000 stockholders. Five out of every six of them own fewer than 100 shares. Two out of every five reside in states, in which the Illinois Central System operates. One out of every twenty is an employee of the railroad.

More than half the railway investment is represented by bonds, many of which are held by insurance companies, savings banks and endowed institutions of learning. Through these bondholders thousands of other individuals become indirectly, but none the less really, dependent upon railway earnings.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Father of Hub U. Canty Dies at Home At Pascagoula Friday

Funeral services were held Saturday for William M. Canty, who died at his home at Pascagoula Friday, after an illness of several days. The Rev. Father Daugherty of Spring Hill officiated.

Mr. Canty was a native of Jackson, born at Vancleave 75 years ago. He moved to Pascagoula in early life and was one of the leading business men of that city. At one time he owned and conducted one of the largest mercantile establishments in this section.

Of late years he has been the head of the Canty Coffee Company, wholesale jobbers in coffee and candy. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Julia Gautier of West Pascagoula, two sons, Herbert U. Canty of Bay St. Louis, and Frank Canty of Pascagoula, two daughters, Miss Marie Canty of Pascagoula and Mrs. B. T. Barnett of Washington, D. C., a sister, Mrs. Laura Gautier, and a brother, James Canty, and several half brothers and sisters.

Mr. Canty was a frequent visitor to Bay St. Louis at one time, stopping at the home of his son, H. U. Canty and family and was no stranger here.

Many messages of condolence from Bay St. Louis were sent, including one from the Rotary Club of which the deceased's son is a charter member.

Bay St. Louis Lover
of Children Is Dead
At New Orleans, La.

Edward S. Bartlett, brother of Mrs. C. A. Allison, of Bay St. Louis, is dead at New Orleans, where he resided the past few years at the Bethany Home, and from which his funeral took place Wednesday.

Mr. Bartlett lived with his sister and brother-in-law for many years and was very dear to them. He had never married and had devoted all his life to them and their family.

His life's pleasure was the company of young children; his fondness for them knew no bounds and he bore a marked affection for all whom he knew. Practically every child in Bay St. Louis, residing along his daily and morning walk, from the Allison residence to the postoffice and village proper, was a personal friend, so to speak.

There are few, if any other tributes of more meaning than this—the love of the little ones. To love them is blessed, indeed, for how well comes to mind the words of the Master and little children.

Mr. Bartlett was a man of ingenious talent. His handiwork with scroll and saw brought many joyful moments to the little ones. His art of cutting out initials and monograms from thin sheets of wood and given these little souvenirs to children was of mutual pleasure.

In all he had resided in Bay St. Louis with his sister and brother-in-law covering a period of some thirty-three years. He was practically known by everyone and generally beloved, and his passing away is an occasion for sorrow, even though he had lived to the ripe age of 85 years. The writer personally knew Mr. Bartlett for many years and enjoyed his sunny disposition and the even tenor of his way. His goodness and largeness of his heart were attributes that made for him many friends.

CONNER SPEAKS TO MANY

Mike Addresses Many People On College Ground Saturday Morning of Last Week.

Mike Conner, candidate for governor, who is second in the race with Hugh L. White, for the second primary run-off, addressed local voters on the lawn of St. Stanislaus College last Saturday morning preceding the opening of a two-day fair, benefit Catholic church.

Considering the weather was hotter than usually and listeners had to stand, the distinguished had many hearers and his address was very good and along the lines he has been speaking over the State.

He was introduced in eloquent terms by our townsman, C. Greer Moore, who spoke with emphasis that carried conviction.

Mr. Conner is of pleasing personality and his addresses practicable and he was given quite an ovation at the conclusion of his address. He expressed himself as well pleased with the reception given here and left soon after to fill another speaking engagement.

From this time until August 28th 1897 he was pastor of Bay St. Louis (or Shieldsborough) and all its missions. For fifty years these two men worked among the people of Bay St. Louis. Theirs was a mission of Charity, they brought light and instruction to the poor and ignorant, they established schools, they brought the comfort and consolation of religion to the poor people. Both had been educated in France, both were accustomed to the conveniences of higher civilization, yet both left all to come to our little village and there spend the best years of their life—in self sacrifice, for the spiritual and temporal betterment of these natives. Here we have a type of citizenship we may set up as a model. Other men in our city have worked well—but many were animated by motives not entirely unselfish. Fr. Buteux and Fr. LeDuc gave all in a generous spirit of self-sacrifice. We are proud of our citizens, but after we have paid honor to each and every one we will find that these two missionaries have given us the best exemplification of true citizenship."

Visiting Rotarians at the meeting were Warren Jackson of Ocean Springs and E. A. Lang of Pass Christian.

HANCOCK COUNTY
SLAYER AT LARGE

Island. J. A. McLemore and W. M. Mingee, the two government men, were both from Picayune, Miss. They were ambushed in their camp on Honey Island, and their bodies were not found until some days later. Favre was connected with the slaying by his possession of the guns and other equipment of the slain federal men.

In view of the high feeling aroused by the killings, difficulty was experienced in securing a jury to try the man. Judge Walter A. White, in opening the trial, delivered a ruling which attracted national attention. He announced from the bench that any newspaperman sending out the details of the trial would be cited for contempt of court and sent to jail.

Several newspapermen disregarded his warning, and were cited, but none was ever jailed. The jurist explained his ruling by saying that he had feared a second trial would be necessary, and believed that if the reviewing evidence regarding the slayings was made public, it would be impossible to secure a jury for the second hearing from the coast counties.

The mental condition of Favre entered into the testimony, and he escaped with a life sentence. His alleged accomplice was lynched while out on bond.
